Good morning John,

Hope you've had a good week, thank you for the nudge.

I've had a couple of conversations with colleagues about this opportunity and whilst we can definitely see the value of the collective and the support offered by the BEP network, this isn't something Bilton Grange can join at the moment. I'd be keen to know how the launch goes and perhaps revisit this in a couple of years.

Thank you again for your time and best of luck.

Best,
Sophie

Hi Sophie,

I just wanted to follow up on my email from last week regarding the introduction to the relevant colleagues at Bilton Grange and the opportunity to explore whether BEP could support the school's international recruitment.

I appreciate you may be busy with the summer break, so I simply wanted to keep the conversation open and let you know that I'm very happy to connect either before term resumes, if convenient, or once everyone is back in September.

It would be great to have the opportunity to introduce BEP to the relevant members of the team and understand whether there could be a good fit between what we offer and Bilton Grange's international recruitment objectives.

I hope you're having a good summer, and I look forward to hearing from you when convenient.

Best regards,
John

Hi Sophie

I hope that you're having a good Summer.

I just wanted to drop you a quick note to see how things are going following our conversation about BEP and if you've managed to have any internal discussions. I appreciate that colleagues might still be on holiday. We have a presentation should you like to schedule a conversation in the next few weeks when colleagues return.

Thanks & best regards

John

Good evening John,

Thank you for the below. I appreciate you might need more information at this stage so I'll have a few conversations this end before I delve too much deeper. As it's the middle of the summer holidays and most people are still away, I'm unlikely to be able to come back until the end of next week with next steps so if anything progresses prior to then with other schools just let me know.

I'll be back in touch again soon!

Best,
Sophie

Good afternoon Sophie,

Thank you for your email. Your questions around the likely pipeline at prep-school age, the opportunity in new growth markets and the value of becoming a founding partner are very helpful.

The international recruitment landscape is becoming increasingly competitive. For schools wishing to remain selective, maintain healthy pupil numbers and increase the diversity of their international intake, it is becoming more important to develop a broader and more consistent recruitment presence across multiple markets.

We believe Bilton Grange has a strong proposition for international families, particularly through its relationship with Rugby and the opportunity to present the school as the beginning of a longer-term educational pathway.

In relation to potential pupil numbers, we would prefer not to provide a projection based on assumptions alone. To prepare a credible indicative pipeline, we would first need to understand:

- the principal entry points and year groups Bilton Grange wishes to target;
- the number of boarding places expected to be available for September 2027;
- the school's admissions criteria and application process;
- the current international pupil profile and priority nationalities; and
- Bilton Grange's existing agent relationships and current pipeline.

Once we have this information, we can prepare a market-by-market assessment covering qualified family opportunities, likely applications and realistic enrolment potential.

Our initial view is that Thailand, Singapore, Taiwan and selected wider South-East Asian markets could offer good opportunities. Latin America and parts of Europe may also provide longer-term potential, although these markets are likely to require more sustained development.

There are two possible partnership structures:

Fixed Retainer Partnership

Under the Fixed Retainer model, BEP would coordinate and support Bilton Grange's international enrolment function across agreed markets and channels for a fixed monthly service fee. Bilton Grange would retain its existing agents, existing pipeline and full flexibility. BEP would provide access to its regional presence, agent development, family nurturing, market activity, CRM reporting and pipeline coordination and conversion.

This model is generally most suitable where a school wishes to retain maximum flexibility while benefiting from a fully supported international enrolment function.

Performance Partnership

Under the Performance Partnership, there would be no fixed monthly retainer. BEP would instead receive a 15% operational service fee in respect of pupils successfully enrolled through the BEP function. As BEP would be investing in market development without an upfront retainer, we would normally agree defined responsibility or regional exclusivity in the markets and channels that BEP is asked to develop.

This would not affect Bilton Grange's existing agent network. At the outset, the school would provide a list of its current agents and active relationships, which would remain protected. For example, Bilton Grange could continue working with its established agents in China, Hong Kong and Japan, while BEP could develop additional relationships outside that existing network.

In markets where Bilton Grange currently has little or no presence, such as Thailand or Singapore, BEP would normally require exclusivity while building the market from the ground up. This protects the investment being made by BEP, avoids duplicated approaches and ensures that agents and families receive a clear and consistent message.

Where an agent is involved, the agent's commission would be additional to BEP's operational service fee. BEP collects the commission on behalf of the relevant agent under its partnership agreements and passes it to the agent in full. BEP does not retain any part of the agent commission or determine the level charged by the agent.

As a founding partner, Bilton Grange would also have the opportunity to help shape BEP's pre-school strategy, receive priority positioning within agreed growth markets and benefit from a more focused approach than would be possible within a large, general portfolio of schools.

We hope this provides a useful basis for your discussion with Gareth. Once we understand Bilton Grange's objectives, capacity and existing relationships in greater detail, we would be very pleased to prepare a more specific market and pipeline proposal.

Best wishes,
John

Morning John,

Thank you again for yours and Ying's time yesterday, it was a really helpful conversation.

As mentioned, in order to support conversations with Gareth, it would be helpful to understand a bit more about expected pipeline at the prep school age and broadly which regions they will be recruited from. We have very good relationships in situ with China, Japan and Hong Kong so are more interested in the growth market opportunity and how a founding partner position would help us here i.e. Singapore, Thailand, Latin America etc.

Best,
Sophie

Good Afternoon Sophie

Thank you very much for your time today. It was a pleasure to meet and learn more about Bilton Grange.

I wanted to ensure that you had the link to the ISC Census <https://www.isc.co.uk/research/annual-census/> and a copy of the BEP prospectus. Further research indicates potential growth markets including South East Asia, a region that we have established agency relationships, school partnerships, and experienced in-country colleagues.

Next steps following your discussions with Gareth would be to learn more about Bilton's international recruitment objectives, markets of interest and targets. We have a questionnaire that helps with this and the formation of a proposal. I don't want to 'jump the gun' with this as I understand that internal discussions rightly need to take place.

I would be very pleased to schedule a further meeting to discuss the questions you posed at the end of today's call focusing on our interests in Bilton Grange and suitability as a founding member. Please do let me know a time that fits your schedule.

Kindest regards

John
