Hi Whitney

How are you?

Do you think that we can work towards both schools SLT meeting the week commencing Monday 7th September? I'm sure that we can accommodate a time that works for your team.

If the Island School would like to explore exchange or short-term study opportunities during the forthcoming academic year, I feel that it would be good to begin sharing ideas and planning asap.

Thanks & I look forward to hearing from you.

Kindest regards

John

Dear Whitney

I hope that you are keeping well and that you found the links helpful.

Would you be interested in sharing a couple of dates that might work for your SLT to have a conversation about partnership opportunities with Myddelton College. We are very interested in exploring student exchange and short-term study opportunities.

If you can share some dates, I will connect with our Development Director and return with some agenda suggestions.

Wishing you a great weekend.

Best wishes

John

Subject: RE: International recruitment for the The Island, Cyprus

Dear Whitney

Thank you once again for taking the time to meet and for your interest in collaboration. Please find below further academic information as requested to share with your leadership team.

Myddelton College is proud to offer a broad and ambitious British curriculum that encourages every student to achieve their full academic potential. Small class sizes, personalised learning pathways and dedicated pastoral support enable students to flourish both academically and personally. Our students consistently achieve outstanding examination outcomes, with A-Level and GCSE results well above national averages, reflecting the commitment of our teaching staff and the ambition of our students. As a recognised Microsoft Showcase School, Myddelton is acknowledged globally for its innovative use of technology in education, equipping students with the digital skills, creativity and collaborative mindset required for success in higher education and beyond. Please find below a link to our latest academic results and college prospectus:

In addition, I wanted to share some additional information about the Myddelton College Immersion Programme, please find link below. We believe this programme could provide an excellent opportunity for Island School students to experience British education while developing their English language skills, academic confidence and cultural awareness in a supportive traditional boarding environment.

MC Immersion Handbook

One of the unique aspects of the Myddelton experience is our Learning Through The Outdoors (LTTO) programme, which is embedded across all age groups. Set within the outstanding natural landscape of North Wales, students benefit from regular outdoor learning experiences that extend well beyond traditional classroom teaching. Through LTTO, students develop a wide range of transferable personal skills, including resilience, leadership, teamwork, communication, independence, problem-solving and self-confidence. The programme also encourages environmental awareness and provides memorable experiences that support both personal growth and academic development. You can find more information about the programme here:

Outdoor and Adventure Education | Myddelton College

We believe that the combination of our Immersion Programme, Learning Through The Outdoors, and future student exchange opportunities offers an exciting platform for collaboration between our schools. To explore these opportunities further, we would be delighted to arrange an online meeting later this month between the academic leadership teams at Myddelton College and The Island School. This would provide an opportunity to discuss how an immersion, exchange or broader partnership could be developed to benefit students from both schools.

Please let me know if there is a convenient date later this month, and we will be happy to coordinate with the Myddelton College Senior Leadership Team.

I look forward to hearing from you and continuing our discussions.

Kind regards,

John

Dear John and Ying,

Thank you for your time yesterday.

It was a pleasure to meet you and learn more about BEP and your other work. Please allow me a few weeks to return to you, as most of our senior leaders are returning from holiday from the week of the 17th.

Until then, can you also provide links and/or a bit of academic background about Myddelton College, so that I can also provide some background for academic leaders to understand if coursework could be transferable.

Thank you,
Whitney

Dear Whitney,

Thank you very much for taking the time to meet Ying & I earlier today.

I greatly appreciated the opportunity to introduce British Enrolment Partners and to learn more about The Island School. Following our discussion, I believe there is significant potential for us to work together, particularly in the development of short-term educational opportunities for students. We see alignment between your school's programmes and those offered at Myddelton College, including Student Exchange and Immersion opportunities, as well as other bespoke short-course experiences.

As a natural next step, I would be delighted to arrange a meeting between your Senior Leadership Team (or Curriculum Team) and the Leadership & Development Team at Myddelton College. I believe this would provide an excellent opportunity to explore how a student exchange partnership and wider collaboration could be developed to benefit both schools. To support these discussions, I have attached information outlining our current short-term & immersion opportunities at Myddelton College and look forward to learning more about potential short-term programmes that we could help The Island School to recruit for.

Thank you once again for your time and interest. I look forward to continuing our discussions and exploring how our schools can work together to create meaningful international opportunities for students.

Kind regards,

John

Thanks Andrew,

Yes, let's meet! If you're in the UK, I'm 2 hours ahead of you in Cyprus. Do you have time around 10am-12pm UK next week Monday or Thursday? If so, feel free to send me a meeting invite.

Looking forward to it!

Dear Whitney

I hope that you are keeping well.

Thanks so much for sharing the brochure, it looks like a very exciting time for the Island School and very interesting to hear that Limassol is becoming a tech & entrepreneurship hub.

If possible, I'd like to drill down a little further into boarding numbers and get a better understanding of the student experience. Are you able to share the number of full-time boarders enrolling this September and projection for next September. I ask, as many families we counsel present this question and want to ensure that their children are fulfilled pastorally outside the classroom in evenings and at weekends. Do the Russian speaking students that you mention reside on the island, so essentially weekly boarding or are their families living overseas?

I'd be very pleased to jump on a call whenever is convenient to learn more.

Thanks & best wishes

Dear John and Andrew,

I hope you are doing well!

I've attached a PDF for your reference, and I will send updated materials next month once we finalize enrollment for the 26-27 academic year. We've been welcoming new families, and going through visa processes, so please forgive my delay, in response.

To answer your questions, here are a few responses:

Are boarding students accommodated on a campus from 2026? Students are living off-campus with several daily buses to our school. We have recently outfitted a hotel specifically for Island students and staff which is 600 meters from the Mediterranean Sea. Once the new school build is complete; we will house students on-campus in approximately 2-3 years.

Do you have more info about the school's academics, boarding facilities and fee structure? Plus some more about the school and what makes it unique generally? This was our first cohort of graduates with a small class primarily going to universities around Europe, UK and the USA. Here's a bit more about the fees for boarding, at the end of the link.

There are several things that make it unique in our location at the crossroads of the future and antiquity. Limassol, Cyprus is quietly becoming a tech and entrepreneurship hub due to its strategic location between Europe and the Middle East, attracting businesses from all over the world. We are embracing this community by weaving technology and entrepreneurship into IB classes, into after school programming, into Student Marketing Team, and more. The ancient island of Cyprus also allows for enriching educational excursions in our own backyard with ancient Roman mosaics and amphitheatres just 20 minutes from campus.

As this is our second year attracting boarding students, we've primarily had Russian-speaking students in our boarding facilities coming from Russia, Ukraine, Belarus and more. Yet, these are very small cohorts, so we intend to attract a diverse population of students, as this is part of our intention in onboarding partners like yourselves that can also support our strategic goals.

I'm sure there is much more to discuss, so please let me know, if you'd like to meet or if I can provide more background about the Island School.

All the best,

Whitney

Hi Whitney

Thanks very much for getting in touch.

May I learn a little more please about boarding and the Island's extra-curricular programmes. Are boarding students accommodated on a campus from 2026? It would also be helpful to learn about the number and nationality mix of overseas students signed-up for 2026/27.

As you mentioned, we are focusing on forming partnerships with British boarding schools, however I'd be pleased to learn more around the questions raised so I can introduce internally.

Thanks & best wishes

Hi Andrew,

Thanks so much for your prompt reply!

This sounds really great, but I have a few questions:

1. Would BEP consider working with a school based in Cyprus?
2. Students would be taking the IB program although we do have one scholarship program that takes A Levels. Would we be a good fit? We're in the 4th academic year and only second year having boarding students, so we are very new to this game.

I know this project is aimed at British Boarding programs, but this is one of our strategic goals in building this offering out along with our new campus. Thus, it could be a good time to speak more.

Let me know your thoughts and I'd love to meet if this could be an option to continue discussing.

All the best,

Whitney

Hey Whitney,

Thanks so much for your LI message and congrats on the new gig at The Island, Limassol. Very exciting. It's not a market that we've looked at for this new venture but we're happy to share and see if there's a conversation. Who knows!

As requested, I'm sharing some more info on an international boarding recruitment project I'm now involved in which I think is a strategic and commercial game changer for schools looking to increase market share in what we know is a tough market right now.

I don't need to tell you how competitive and prized that part of your community has become. Schools across the country are telling me their pipelines have gone sticky, and that converting the agency leads they're handed is harder than it used to be. Nobody's pretending it's easy out there.

Which is why I think there's room for a challenger in international recruitment, in the same way we've seen other core parts of running a school, catering being the obvious one, professionalised and brought into integrated outsourcing.

To cut to the chase: British Enrolment Partners (BEP) launched quietly this week and will run the international enrolment function for a handpicked group of British boarding schools. The markets, the agents, the applications and the in-territory work, handled as one coordinated operation rather than a scatter of separate relationships.

Re who's behind BEP, Ying, BEP's Founder and CEO, brings a global network of agents and offices across Europe, Asia and LATAM, and is a successful boarding school proprietor in her own right - recruiting over 1,000s of boarders over a decade in the sector. John, Head of Partnerships, is an experienced international pupil and agency recruiter who knows this side of the recruitment process inside out.

The tagline for BEP is “your always-on international enrolment office”.

The line that matters more is this: the model is built to bring down the cost of running your international recruitment function while guaranteeing a wider pool of right-fit agents and new enquiries. In practice the aim is to do both at once, trimming what you currently spend on international recruitment while widening the enquiries coming in, with the combined effect running well into six figures in your favour across a year.

Sounds too good to be true?

I'd want proof too.

Which is why BEP starts with a no-cost, no-obligation audit of your current international coverage: your agents, your process and where your pupils are coming from, set against the markets and pupil profile you want. It's carried out under an NDA, with a written undertaking not to approach or work around any agent it sees. It's diagnostic, so where your setup is already strong, they'll tell you.

I've attached the Founding School Partner prospectus, which should answer a good deal up front, but the best next step would be a short call between your team and the BEP team.

BEP isn't interested in schools chasing numbers for their own sake and they are being deliberately selective in the schools they are offering this partnership opportunity too.

It wants schools that are confident in who they are and what they offer, but recognise that, for whatever reason, that strength isn't translating into the international boarding numbers it should. The idea is simple: BEP plays to its enrolment strengths so you can focus on yours.

BEP will only work with a small number of schools this founding year, and we're onboarding the first now, with the focus on bedding the model in comprehensively and passing on learnings and benefits to those that buy into the concept as early adopters. So there's an extra reason to be looking at BEP sooner rather than later.

If you'd like to line up the audit, or put any questions to us on a call or by email, just let me know. Even on its own the international agency and recruitment audit carries real strategic and commercial value for a board and leadership team, whatever you decide to do next.

Best wishes,

Andrew
